Telling Our Stories
A Voices of Southern Illinois Project

Carbondale’s African-American Museum has partnered with SIU’s Imagining Geographies “Voices of Southern Illinois” project to discuss the need and best methods to record stories about the region’s African-American history.

The public is welcome to attend the first panel discussion, “Telling Our Stories,” Saturday, April 13 from 2:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. at Thomas School in Carbondale.

Details follow:

Event:
  April 13, 2013;   2-5 pm.

Site:
  Thomas School, 1025 N Wall St.  Carbondale

PROGRAM: Host/Moderator:  Novotny Lawrence, Interim Chair, Radio, Television, & Digital Media, SIU.

Presentations:

1) Stace England, cultural Scholar & musician: Presentation of reflections on archival work involved in two projects:  Greetings from Cairo  and  The Amazing Oscar Micheaux.

2) Angela Aguayo, Assistant Professor, Department of Cinema & Photography, SIU.  Following a screen of her recent film – 778 Bullets, Professor Aguayo will discuss how her archival work and interviewing served as the foundation for the story she tells in her film.

Telling our Stories - Live Interview Experience.  Interviewer, Professor Aguayo.

Panel discussion:  Moderator:  Professor Lawrence

Panelists:  Mr. Milton McDaniel, Dr. Ella Lacey, Iman Abdul Haqq,  Professor Aguayo.

Open Community Discussion

Register for this events at  Imagining.Geographies.2013@gmail.com

Please include the date and name of the event, your name, email and telephone number